

BIO 204 : Human Anatomy and Physiology II

Spring, Summer

This course is the second half of a yearlong introduction to Human Anatomy and Physiology. Course topics will include the organization of the body systems at the molecular, cellular, and tissue levels and homeostatic mechanisms associated with the cardiovascular, respiratory, lymphatic, digestive, urinary and reproductive systems.

Credits 3

Prerequisite Courses

BIO 202

BIO 212

Corequisite Courses

BIO 214